Government's chief adviser on marine engineering. Between 1924 and 1932 Furkert was also chairman of the Main Highways Board.

Furkert served overseas during World War Two. Arriving in Fiji in mid-1941 with the rank of Colonel, to advise on breakwater construction for the flying-boat base, Furkert remained in Fiji for two years, as New Zealand Government Agent for defence construction and purchasing.

Reflecting on Furkert's engineering ability in 1959, New Zealand Institution of Engineers (NZIE) President Walter Gordon Morrison believed he had "practical genius" comparable with eminent 19th century British engineer Thomas Telford (New Zealand Engineering, 14:4 (1959), 103).

Successive engineers in chief, Public Works Department [1946], Alexander Turnbull Library, Wellington, New Zealand.

Contributing to the engineering profession

Furkert became an Associate Member of Britain's Institution of Civil Engineers in 1909, a Member in 1921, and was elected to the Council in 1932. His membership of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers dated from 1913.

Furkert was a foundation member of NZIE (now the Institution of Professional Engineers New Zealand, IPENZ) at its constitution in 1914. He had long service on the Council and was elected Vice-President in 1921 and President in 1923. He contributed several technical papers to the Institution, his interest in which was also displayed by his gift, not long

OBITUARY FREDERICK WILLIAM FURKERT was born at Ross, Westland, New Zealand, on the 14th October, 1876, and died at Wellington, New Zealand, on the 26th September, 1949. He was educated at the Ross State School and the Hokitika High School, and pursued his scientific studies at Wellington, at Dunedin, and at Otago University. In 1898, after a 4-year period of practical training, he was appointed an Assistant Engineer to the Public Works Department, engaged mainly on railway works. In 1905, he became Resident Engineer-in-Chief of the Province of Taranaki ; in 1906, Engineer-in-charge of Construction, North Island Main Trunk Railway ; and from 1908 to 1912, was District Engineer of the Provinces of Otago and Southland. In March 1913, he was sent to England to represent New Zealand at the International Road Congress and the Imperial Motor Transport Congress, and also visited engineering works in Europe and the United States. In 1912, he was appointed Inspecting Engineer to the P.W.D., Wellington, and, in 1914, acted for several months as Engineer-in-Chief. He became Assistant-Engineer-in-Chief in 1919 and Engineer-in-Chief and Under-Secretary of the P.W.D., New Zealand, in 1920. From 1924 to 1932, he was also Chairman of the Main Highways Board. From 1932 to 1937, he was General Advisory Engineer to the New Zealand Government. After retiring from the Government service he started practice as a Consultant, and acted as Deputy Chairman of the New Zealand Standards Institute. During the first World War he was Director of Military Works, with the rank of Honorary Colonel, and was placed in charge of the construction of semi-permanent camps and mobilization bases ; his services were recognized by the award of the C.M.G. in 1926 ; in the 1939-1945 war, he was Commissioner of Defence Works, in Fiji, with the same rank, in charge of military works such as seaplane bases and aerodromes for the Fiji, New Zealand, and United States forces. Mr Furkert was elected an Associate Member of the Institution on the 12th January, 1909, and was transferred to the class of Member on the 8th March, 1921. He served on the Council, as the representative of New Zealand, from 1932 to 1935. He presented two Papers, namely, " The Effect of Earthquakes on Engineering Structures " 1 and " Remedial Measures on the Arapuni Hydro-electric Scheme of Power Development on the Waikato River, New Zealand." 2 He also contributed to the " Proceedings " of the New Zealand Society of Civil Engineers, of which he was a Past-President, and was Honorary Secretary to the New Zealand Institute of Engineers. He was married twice : first to Miss Constance Mary Plimmer (died 1928), by whom he had two sons and one daughter ; and secondly, to Miss Catherine Anne Foley, by whom he had one son and one daughter. Min. Proc. Instn Civ. Engrs, vol. 236 (1932-33, Part 2), p. 344. * Ibid., vol. 240 (1934-35, Part 2), p. 411. =DE Ai4D PBmTED IR QEEAT BRITAIN BY WILLIAY QOWES AND SONS, LIMITED, LONDON AND BECOLEB.
